

What I aspire to become?

I am Dipa Dev and I was born in a middle class family and unlike others I have big dreams and big desires to achieve. I want to face challenges of the world and achieve my dream, my passion, my ambition to become an entrepreneur. Yes, difficulties will be my antagonist but my confidence and dedication will be my protagonist. I aspire to become a successful entrepreneur and stand with the women of the world. I want to support them, encourage them to believe in themselves and fight all the problems in their lives and rise up. I want to build my own business empire where there will be minimisation of profit and maximisation of Service.

Confidence and hard work are my two protagonists for this journey of my life, Struggling will be a big part of my life and success will touch my heart when I achieve it. I seek to provide social service and also build non profit organisation through my empire.

I aspire to earn profits and spend part of my earnings on social services. Helping the ones in need after I build my business empire is my major step for the development of the society. Empowering women's confidence and giving them opportunities to build their own entrepreneurial skills is my aim so that they can succeed in their life too.

I conclude with a quote from Walt Disney

“All dreams come true, if you have the courage to pursue them”

Thank you very much
